Another TRX success story...

Dear White's,

Thank you for making the TRX pinpointer. It is an awesome tool! It is responsible for my best find to date!

My son and I were hunting a park, and as he is 11 and can't dig a very good plug, I have him put down poker chips on the surface so I can double check and dig his targets. He got a good hit on his detector. I checked it with my detector. Still pretty good so I dug and found a beavertail. While I was going to stand up the TRX went off. Since this is my first hunt with it, I decided to dig. I was at least 6 inches from that ring when it gave a slight vibration in the hole I dug, directly towards the tree base.

As you can guess, I was completely surprised to see a gold ring wedged in between two huge roots. It took me 10 minutes and the tree had to sacrifice some skin to get that ring out. What an epic hunt! What an amazing hobby!
